Meticulously renovated to an exceptional standard, the property showcases a seamless blend of style and substance. At its heart lies a stunning open-plan living space, where polished concrete flooring introduces a sleek, architectural finish, complementing the cottage's original charm. A striking inglenook fireplace with a cosy log burner provides a warm and inviting focal point, ideal for relaxed coastal living.

Every element has been thoughtfully considered, resulting in a calm, cohesive aesthetic of understated elegance.

Upstairs, two beautifully presented double bedrooms offer peaceful retreats with the original waxed floor, while the shower room is finished to a high specification with tiles and contemporary power shower, reflecting the quality seen across the home.

Externally, the property continues to impress. Alongside off-road parking, the cottage enjoys an extensive elevated rear garden with views towards the sea, a rare and highly desirable feature. Thoughtfully arranged for both relaxation and entertaining, it provides the perfect setting to enjoy Cornwall's coastal lifestyle in privacy and tranquility.

Positioned just a short stroll from the centre of the charming fishing village of Porthallow, April Cottage offers a rare opportunity to enjoy a relaxed coastal lifestyle in an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty.

The home has been carefully reimagined to create a space that is both stylish and highly functional, with a natural flow that suits modern day-to-day living. The ground floor centres around a generous open-plan layout, where clearly defined areas for cooking, dining and relaxing come together with ease, creating an inviting and sociable environment. The characterful inglenook fireplace adds warmth and atmosphere, making it an ideal setting throughout the seasons. On the first floor, two well-proportioned double bedrooms provide comfortable accommodation, each benefitting from built-in wardrobes. The shower room is finished with quality fittings, including a contemporary power shower, offering both practicality and comfort.

Externally, the cottage continues to impress. Alongside the convenience of off-road parking, there is an extensive elevated rear garden, thoughtfully arranged to make the most of its position and enjoying views across the village towards the sea. This is a wonderful space for outdoor dining, entertaining or simply unwinding in peaceful surroundings.

Porthallow itself is known for its welcoming and active community. The village pub provides a lively social hub, hosting regular events including barbecues and live music, while the parish hall offers a range of activities such as film nights, Pilates and seasonal celebrations, including the much-loved Christmas lights.

Located on the Lizard Peninsula, arguably one of Cornwall's most beautiful and unspoilt regions.

The quintessential fishing cove of Porthallow is situated on the favoured sheltered eastern side of The Lizard peninsula and is an area of outstanding natural beauty. There is a pleasant shingle beach with coastal views out across Falmouth Bay towards Falmouth and St Mawes in the distance. Porthallow is situated at the mid-point of the South West Coastal Footpath and plays host to the Five Pilchards Public House with the well regarded Fat Apples Cafe a few moments away.

The village of St Keverne lies approximately two miles away and boasts an active community with a good range of clubs, societies and organisations, having a good selection of local shops which cater for everyday needs, two public houses, a health centre, Methodist chapel, Anglican church and primary school. Comprehensive schooling is available in the nearby village of Mullion. A short drive away are the majestic and renowned sailing waters of the Helford River. Helford is set in an area of outstanding natural beauty and lush countryside. For the sailing enthusiast the area offers excellent facilities and opportunities for exploring the many beautiful wooded creeks including Frenchman's Creek, immortalised by Daphne Du-Maurier in the novel by the same name.
